HERZ DER SERIE & NARRATIV

WAHRHEIT VERÄNDERT ALLES – EINE FAMILIE, EINE GENERATION, EIN GANZES LAND.

Eine junge Dolmetscherin wird während ihrer Arbeit bei den Frankfurter Prozessen 1963 mit der erschütternden Vergangenheit des Holocaust und den damit verbundenen Geheimnissen ihrer eigenen Familie konfrontiert. Durch schonungslose Aufarbeitung deckt sie auf, was hinter der neuen Gemütlichkeit der Nachkriegszeit verschwiegen bleibt: Vergehen, Leid und Schuld, die nicht nur in ihrer eigenen Familie zu finden sind.

TONALITÄT DER SERIE

Tonality

AUTHENTISCH

Durch die akkurate und fundierte Erzählweise, die die wahre Geschichte des Holocaust und seiner Prozesse unverfälscht wiedergibt.

UNBEQUEM

Durch die direkte Konfrontation mit einer Vergangenheit, die uns alle betrifft und die blind Spots unserer eigenen Geschichte aufdeckt.

BERÜHREND

Weil es die Geschichten von Menschen erzählt, deren Schicksale auch heute nachempfindbar sind und die uns mitfühlen lassen.

AUFFORDERND

Aufrüttelnd und ermutigend Haltung im Hier und Jetzt zu beziehen - um sich gegen eine Wiederholung der Geschichte einzusetzen

LEARNINGS & WATCH OUTS AUS EPISODEN TEST

Overall:

- Dass die Geschichte auf wahren Begebenheiten beruht, ist eine der Haupttriebfedern des Interesses der Zuschauer
- Es gefällt, dass die Geschichte aus einer anderen Perspektive / aus der Sicht einer jungen Frau erzählt wird, die nicht viel über Auschwitz weiß - während einige bemerken, dass dieser Teil der deutschen Geschichte bereits gut bekannt ist, weisen die Zuschauer darauf hin, dass es sich immer noch um ein wichtiges Thema handelt, das nicht vergessen werden sollte
- Das Versprechen von Geheimniskrämerei, Spannung und Mysterien in Evas Familiendynamik wird mit Spannung erwartet

Trailer Briefing / Learnings & Watch Outs

Hoher Bekanntheitsgrad des Casts (GSA)

- Fokus auf berühmten deutschen Schauspielern (Anke Engelke, Heiner Lauterbach, Iris Berben, Max von der Groeben) mit Eva (Katharina Stark) als Hauptfigur im Mittelpunkt (hohe Sympathie) - Nennung / zeigen der Darsteller (Schrift-Tafeln)

1/3 der Zuschauer findet die Geschwindigkeit, in dem die Story voranschreitet, zu langsam

- Schneller 'Einstieg' und Aufbau des Spannungsbogen (gerne auch Material aus den hinteren Episoden nutzen) - keine Angst vor 'Spoilern'
- Schnellerer Pace / Dynamik im Trailer (möglichst viel zeigen)
- Drama im Vordergrund (dramatische Szenen vor Gericht / Familie)
- Familie/ Eltern klarer einbinden, dass die auch was mit dem historischen Hintergrund zu tun haben, Spannung aufbauen, klar machen da ist mehr als man sieht

1/3 der Zuschauer bewertet das Setting der 60er als ausgezeichnet

- Musik als unterstützendes Element, um die Zuschauer ins Deutschland der 60er zu versetzen

Weniger interessant für Zuschauer ist die Beziehung von Eva & Jürgen

- Auf Liebesgeschichte zwischen den beiden im Trailer verzichten

Roman „Deutsches Haus“ eher unbekannt

- Auf Link zum Roman (basierend auf Roman) verzichten

+ Overall Summary

PLAYABILITY

- DEUTSCHES HAUS tests above benchmarks, with 2-in-5 viewers rating it 'excellent' and looking to make every effort to watch future episodes. While intent-to-view is similar across age and gender, women and those aged 35-44 are more likely to rate the episode 'excellent' (47% for both).
- Viewers are drawn to the true historical elements of the story, and the series not shying from addressing the difficult subject. The majority are excited to follow Eva's journey as she uncovers the atrocities that unfolded at Auschwitz and brings some justice to the victims. The story being inspired by real life events is a core driving force of interest. There's also excitement at the promise of secrecy, tension and mystery in Eva's family dynamics.

STRENGTHS

- DEUTSCHES HAUS transports viewers back in time, and dives into uncomfortable truths. A third of viewers rate the 60s setting 'excellent', with many commending it for being an authentic portrayal of 60s Germany. Audiences also feel emotional throughout the episode, appreciating it dives into a tragic part of German history through the stories shared and the concept of the show itself.
- The cast is also well-recognized, and praised for their stellar performance. Viewers recognize Anke Engelke and commend Katharina Stark for her emotional performance. Eva is the character viewers appreciate most, while her family are still characters audiences are warming up to.
- Seeing the trials from Eva's perspective feel unique. Audiences are eager to go on a journey with Eva as she learns about the atrocities during the trial. There's also curiosity to how it affects her relationships, as it tears her out of her harmonious bubble at home and plans for her future.

AUDIENCE FIT

- The primary audiences for this series are viewers 35+ though the show does have a broader appeal. Audiences like that the story is told through the lens of a young woman who doesn't know much about Auschwitz, with both men and women expressing similar interest, and young viewers not rejecting the show. 7-in-10 viewers are also willing to co-watch the series, with 15% of them looking to do so with their children.
- DEUTSCHES HAUS is a welcome addition to Disney+, praised for the important topic it focuses on. Audiences praise that Disney is investing in local productions, and appreciate the focus on uncomfortable history. While some feel surprised this will be on Disney+ as they haven't seen such content on the platform before, it still improves perceptions of the brand.

WATCHOUTS

- 1-in-3 viewers find the story progresses too slowly, with the beginning being of particular concern. In verbatims, viewers spontaneously mention the slower pace of the episode, with the beginning most frequently mentioned as taking too long to engage viewers' interests as they lack context as to who the characters are. Some also note disengagement during scenes with characters they are still warming up to.
- The court hearing also feels long, mainly as it's painful to hear about. Many commend the show for handling the subject so sensitively, but they also point out the scene was too long, and too bleak and hard to watch.

+ Marketing Recommendations

- 1 Lean into the uncomfortable history DEUTSCHES HAUS will explore. Viewers are drawn to the historical elements and the true story the series is inspired by. They also commend the 60s Germany the show is set in. Highlighting in marketing materials DEUTSCHES HAUS will focus on the uncomfortable, yet important, past the German public is keen to forget can draw audiences in.
- 2 Show the series will follow the unique lens of a young woman teared from her harmonious family life. Eva's naïve and unassuming nature, yet stubbornness to go against the rules of the 60s women are subjected to, is captivating to audiences and they are keen to follow Eva as she uncovers the atrocities committed during Aushwitz. The shocking, confusing, and emotional journey of the everyday German living in the 1960s injects uniqueness to a topic viewers are well familiar with – Eva's personal lens on that story appeals to core audiences of 35+.
- 3 Tap into the star-power of the series through Anke Engelke and Katharina Stark. With almost all viewers well-familiar with Anke Engelke (as well as Heiner Lauterbach and Iris Berben), and commending Katharina Stark for her emotional performance that reaches viewers, leaning into the talent behind the show will be important. Fans of Katharina express higher intent-to-view, while Anke through a strong presence in marketing materials can provide broader appeal.
- 4 Set up the mystery and secrets of the Bruhn family but also show their care and relatable dynamics. Viewers struggle to connect with Eva's family outside their interactions with her, yet pick on some of the secrets they may be hiding. Setting up in the campaign how close-nit they are can make them more relatable, while teasing the secrets they hide can inject some suspense to their story.
- 5 Tease upcoming conflicts to alleviate concerns around pace. With audiences trying to orient themselves in the beginning, as well as finding some scenes unnecessary (e.g. dinners and Jürgen's family), there's an indication they struggle to understand some of these dynamics. Setting the relationships in trailers, and teasing their involvement in the main conflict with the trial, can assist the audience in understanding these characters and their motivations better.

+ The first episode of Deutsches Haus tests above benchmarks, with 2-in-5 viewers rating it 'excellent' and making every effort to watch

Viewers express interest to watch future episodes, with 42% looking to make every effort. While intent-to-view is similar across age and gender, women and those aged 35-44 are more likely to rate the episode 'excellent' (47% for both).
